Runners. Event draws thousands to Point Pleasant Park

Marie-Claude Gregoire wasn't surprised when more than 1,000 runners showed up to Point Pleasant Park.

A sea of blue and yellow jackets swept through the park on a chilly Monday evening as runners paid a silent tribute to the victims of the Boston Marathon bombing.

"It really shows the connection between Halifax and Boston in a very tight-knit running community," says Gregoire, co-organizer of the Boston Memorial Run. "We were all very shocked by what was happening last Monday."

Gregoire, who was sporting her blue- and yellow-striped Boston Marathon jacket, made the Facebook group Runners Grieve By Running after last week's bombings killed three people and injured more than 180 others.

"It was so tragic. I think people just wanted to get together, support each other and come to some form of closure," says Gregoire.

Before the run began, Richard Riley, U.S. Consulate General of Atlantic Canada, expressed his gratitude to the crowd for their support.

"The motto for this evening's race is 'Boston strong,'" he said. 'But I would not only say it's Boston strong, but Halifax strong as well."

Marissa Ayotte and Matt Stickland showed their support by selling Bluenosers for Bostonians shirts. They are hoping to raise $1,000 to donate to the victims of the bombings.

"Halifax and Boston have always had a pretty close relationship," says Stickland.

Ten new conditions covered by expanded infant screening

Babies born in Nova Scotia will now be screened for sickle-cell disease and cystic fibrosis.

The province is adding the two conditions, along with eight others, to an expanded list of conditions to be screened for at birth.

Health and Wellness Minister David Wilson said in a release screening would help early detection and treatment.

"To a parent, there is nothing more important than the health of your new baby," he said.

Sickle-cell disease is an inherited blood disorder that causes sudden pain throughout the body. Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disorder that affects the lungs, pancreas, liver and intestine.

Funding for the enhanced screening was tabled in the 2013-14 provincial budget.

Now this is news to wag your tail about.

The NDP government has introduced legislative amendments targeting animal abusers with tough new penalties.

Ouete

"I see some things in this announcement that are very exciting." Nova Scotia SPCA executive director Kristen Williams Minister of Agriculture John MacDonell announced the changes to the Animal Protection Act at the Fairview Animal Hospital Monday.

"Looking at legislation across the country, we're right up there with the stiffest anywhere," he said.

Fines for animal abusers will now range from $25,000 for a first offence to as much as $75,000 for a third offence.

Another amendment would make it an offence to sell a dog that hasn't been certified in good health by a veterinarian, in attempt to put an end to puppy mills.

The definition of what qualifies as "distress" for an animal would also be clarified to make a reference to anxiety.

Other changes clarify the authority of the minister to develop regulations with respect to the care for animals and the shelters they use.

Nova Scotia SPCA executive director Kristen Williams called the changes "bold," and said she is looking forward to working with the province to develop the regulations.

"We're on the ground and we're enforcing the law, which is why I'm very interested in participating ... because I want to make sure the government's intentions are met, as well as our own," Williams said.

MacDonell said he hopes the bill can get through Province House within a month, but the regulations may not be in place until next year.

Teen pleads guilty to manslaughter of Spryfield man

70-year-old victim.

Court told Jerricho Carter Melvin Upshaw encouraged a younger friend to pull the trigger

A 19-year-old Spryfield man who encouraged a friend to shoot Glenn Francis Oakley more than a year ago has pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Jerricho Carter Melvin Upshaw was originally charged with first-degree murder after the shooting in 2011, along with stealing property under $5,000 and the unlawful possession and use of a credit card.

The murder charge was reduced to second-degree last year, and in Nova Scotia Supreme Court Monday, prosecutor Ron Lacey amended that charge to manslaughter.

"You can be guilty of a criminal offence if you're ... the individual who actually pulled the trigger, or if you aid or abet in the commission of that offense," said Lacey outside court. "Essentially, Mr. Upshaw's guilty as a party."

"Essentially, Mr. Upshaw's guilty as a party."
Oakley, 70, was shot during his regular evening walk on Nov. 19. A neighbour found him lying on the Drysdale Road bridge around 10 p.m. with a gunshot wound to his abdomen.

According to the agreed facts read by Judge Robert Wright, Upshaw and a friend were standing by the bridge when they spotted Oakley.

when they spotted Oakley.

Upshaw encouraged his friend to shoot Oakley with the rifle, saying "do it."

They later stole Oakley's debit and credit cards and attempted to take money out of his accounts.

Lacey said the change to Upshaw's murder charge was prompted by the recent decision in provincial court where the minor who shot Oakley was found guilty of manslaughter.

"It would follow that the person who's guilty as a party would then be guilty as a party to manslaughter," Lacey said.

Upshaw is scheduled to appear in court for sentencing on May 17. HALEY RYAN/METRO

SIRT wraps up investigations

The independent body that investigates major incidents involving police in Nova Scotia has completed three reports involving Halifax-area officers.

However, the Serious Incident Response Team reports state the facts will not be discussed in any detail because all three cases are currently before the courts.

The investigations involve allegations of assault against two Halifax Regional Police officers and one Halifax RCMP officer.

HRP Const. Chris Mosher was arrested on Dec. 11, 2012, after a woman he'd been dating accused him of sexual assault. Mosher is due in court on Thursday.

HRP Const. Desmond Lambert is facing a charge of assault related to an alleged incident of domestic violence involving his wife. He was arrested Jan. 3, 2013.

RCMP Const. Zeran (Justin) Simmonds was arrested Jan. 5, 2013, after an alleged domestic assault involving his girlfriend. METRO

Review ordered after high court quashes MacIntosh appeal

Convictions thrown out. Crown to complete probe of extraditions next month

Nova Scotia's Public Prosecution Service will conduct a review of how it handles extradition cases after the Supreme Court of Canada ruled the Crown took too long to bring an accused sex offender to trial.

The high court, in an oral judgment delivered on Monday, rejected the Crown's appeal of a lower-court decision that quashed all 17 sexoffence convictions against a Nova Scotia man involving boys in the 1970s.

In December 2011, the Nova Scotia Court of Appeal threw out the convictions against Ernest Fenwick Mac-Intosh on the grounds that a 14-year delay between the original allegations and the trial was too long.

MacIntosh was working in India when the allegations first surfaced in 1995, but he wasn't extradited to Canada until 2007, and his trial didn't start until 2010.

In their request to the Supreme Court of Canada for an appeal, Nova Scotia prosecutors said the Appeal Court erred in its decision because it didn't give enough weight to the public's interest. But the Supreme Court concurred with the lower court.

Justice Minister Ross Landry said the province's internal review will also deal with the role of the federal government.

"An analysis has to be done of the Supreme Court decision, so I will read that and then I will talk with my federal counterparts in regards to this matter," he said.

Martin Herschorn, director of Nova Scotia's Public Prosecution Service, said the review should be completed before the end of May.

Halifax harbour

Port funding will finance upgrades

Captains docking their ships won't have to worry about hitting either of the two bridges spanning the Halifax harbour.

Ottawa is making a six-figure contribution to technology upgrades at the Port of Halifax, Defence Minister Peter MacKay announced Monday.

One of those upgrades is an air-gap system, which monitors the amount of clearance between large ships and Halifax harbour bridges. It will also help reduce emission levels and fuel usage, and ensure the safety of the bridges and port users.

The other upgrade — an integrated logistics system — will help improve operations and develop and market technology in the port

As part of the Intelligent Transportation Systems Strategic Plan, the feds are contributing $330,000 of the estimated $660,000 cost. The Port of Halifax will cover the other half. METRO

Commuter Challenge. Get to work using green power, city, health officials urge Drivers in HRM are being urged to take a vacation this June — from their cars.

Mayor Mike Savage joined local health and environmental officials in Dartmouth Monday to launch the annual Commuter Challenge, an event that challenges drivers to try more health-conscious modes of transportation.

Cities across Canada compete for bragging rights during the week-long event, held from June 2 to 8.

"I think any program that can build awareness with citizens — but also with policy makers — around the importance of the built environment and health is a big thing," said Gaynor Watson-Creed, medical officer of health with Capital District Health Authority, during the Earth Day event. "The challenge is fun too

Participants are encouraged to walk, bike, carpool, work from home or take public transit at least once during the week. Commutes are logged online to determine the winner.

Poet laureate Tanya Davis, who performed a poem she wrote for the challenge, said after the event that she is an avid cyclist and feels "safe enough" on the roads.

"I feel like there's safety in numbers, so the more cyclists that get out on the road, the more cars will see them ... and cars will look for cyclists more," she said, adding that bike infrastructure in HRM "isn't great."

Individuals and workplaces can sign up online at commuterchallenge.ca.

Dalhousie. Bank makes bold donation to university

The money tree was in full bloom for the green folks at Dalhousie University thanks to a seven-figure donation on Monday

RBC donated $1.5 million to Dal's College of Sustainability on Monday to support the Sustainability Leadership Certificate (SLC) program.

Steve Mannell, director of the College of Sustainability, called the donation "symbolic."

"For a bank to give money to an emerging sustainability program that's about creating, hopefully, troublesome young leaders, I think that's very powerful," he said.

Kim Mason, RBC's regional president in Atlantic Canada, said when the bank donates, it likes to make sure there's a track record of success.

What's ironic is that the program, the first of its kind in Canada, has only just completed its pilot phase. Regardless, Mason says it was a perfect fit.

"We related to the fact that it was about sustainable leadership," she says.

Through a series of leadership building exercises and community engagement, the program encourages students to tackle problems and dream sustainable solutions. Some projects that were born from the SLC program included a cleanup of Barrington Street and the creation of an environmental-consulting company.

The donation, which coincided with Earth Day, ensures the financial sustainability of the program for another decade. CLARK LANG/FOR METRO MacNeil's daughter Laura Lewis told those gathered at St. Mary's Parish in Big Pond that she was overwhelmed by the sympathies that have been extended to her family after her mother's death.

"What a legacy our mother has left for us. She was a very special mom. We loved her deeply and we will miss her deeply," she said during a half hour service that featured prayers and MacNeil's music

MacNeil's letter to her children, which Lewis read during the service, went on to request a party at the firehall next door to the church immediately following her funeral.

"Cash bar and music, so party on down," Lewis read, prompting laughter from the people who had begun filling the church's pews and upper balcony hours before the funeral got underway.

Premier Darrell Dexter, who was among those who attended the service, said he wanted to pay his respects to a great Nova Scotian who graced the world with her gift of music.

"Rita MacNeil is an iconic individual," Dexter said. "It's an opportunity to reflect on the tremendous gifts that Rita gave to the island and to the province and to the world."

Plan to attack passenger train derailed, RCMP say

Al-Qaida in Canada?

Details emerge on two Canadian residents charged in terror plot

Two Canadian residents were charged Monday for allegedly planning to attack a VIA Rail train in what the RCMP is calling the first known al-Qaida-directed plot in the country.

Chiheb Esseghaier, 30, of Montreal, and Raed Jaser, 35, of Toronto, were arrested Monday.

Police said the suspects had been watching railways in the Greater Toronto Area and were conspiring to derail a passenger train. They said the plot had "direction and guidance" from al-Qaida in Iran.

"While the RCMP believed the accused had the capacity and intent to carry out these criminal acts, there was no imminent threat to the general public," RCMP Assistant Commissioner James Malizia said at a news conference.

Police had Esseghaier and Jaser under surveillance since August. They were put on investigators' radar thanks to tips from the Muslim community, said Supt. Doug Best.

About two dozen Muslim community leaders were told before Monday's news conference that one suspect is Tunisian and one is from the United Arab Emirates.

They have been in the country legally for a "considerable period of time" but are not Canadian citizens, the RCMP said.

A spokeswoman for the University of Sherbrooke told The Canadian Press that Esseghaier studied there in 2008 to 2009.

More recently, he has been doing doctoral research at the Institut national de la recherche scientifique, a spokeswoman at the training university confirmed.

A LinkedIn page says a man with Esseghaier's name and academic background helped author a number of biology research papers, including papers on HIV and cancer detection. The page carries a photo of a black flag inscribed with the Islamic declaration of faith.

Her husband is dead, her brother-in-law in hospital with serious injuries. The spotlight has shifted to Katherine Russell, 24, widow of Tamerlan Tsarnaev. What did she know about her late husband's role in the Boston bombings?

Nothing, her lawyer Amato DeLuca told The Associated Press.

"When this was allegedly going on she was working and had been working all week to support her family," he said.

Russell was a home care worker and worked 70 to 80 hours a week, while Tsarnaev, 26, stayed home to look after their three-year-old daughter, he said

Russell found out from the news that her husband was the focus of the largest manhunt in U.S. history.

DeLuca said federal authorities want to question Russell but were still deciding how.

In the meantime, the young widow's life is being picked apart — particularly her conversion to Islam.

India. 2nd man arrested in rape of five-year-old girl

A second suspect was arrested Monday in the rape of a fiveyear-old girl who New Delhi police say was left for dead in a locked room, a case that has brought new protests against how authorities handle sex crimes.

Pradeep Kumar, a 19-yearold garment factory worker, was arrested Monday in the eastern state of Bihar, about 1,000 kilometres from New Delhi, and was being brought to the capital, police said.

Police said questioning of the first man arrested in the case, Manoj Kumar, led them to the second suspect. Manoj Kumar, 24, was arrested Saturday in Bihar and flown back to New Delhi. Kumar is a common last name in India, and the two men are not related. The men are accused of abducting, raping and attempting to murder the five-year-old, who went missing April 15 and was found two days later by neighbours who heard her crying in a locked room in the same building where she lives.

The girl was in critical condition when she was transferred Thursday to the country's largest government-run hospital. Its medical superintendent said Monday that she has stabilized.

For the third day, sporadic protests erupted in at least three places in New Delhi, protesters shouting that police were slow in handling the case.

Delhi police Commissioner Neeraj Kumar admitted Monday that police had erred.

"The station house officer and his deputy have been suspended," Kumar told reporters.

Feds won't claw back danger pay

Prime Minister Stephen Harper says soldiers in Afghanistan won't have to repay extra danger pay they got through an administrative error.

"It's certainly not the fault of the soldiers," he said. "For that reason, (Defence Minister Peter MacKay) has made very clear they will not have to repay those amounts."

After an outcry two weeks ago, the Conservatives also backed away from a plan to reduce danger pay by almost a third for troops training Afghan soldiers in Kabul. THE CANADIAN PRESS

China shows off disaster-relief skills after quake

At least 188 people killed. Refugee camp set up for survivors with everything from phone-charging stations to ATMs

The tent village that sprang up in two days to house quake survivors in mountain-flanked Lushan is no ordinary refugee camp. China's full range of disaster response is on display: Trucks with x-ray equipment, phone-charging stations, bank tellers-on-wheels — even a tent for insurance claims.

The efforts underway Monday in mountainous Sichuan province after a quake Saturday that killed at least 188 people showed that the government has continued to hone its disaster reaction — long considered a crucial leadership test in China — since a much more devastating earthquake in 2008, also in Sichuan, and another one in 2010 in the western region of Yushu.

"Lushan was so heavily hit and my family's house toppled. It has been such a disaster for us," said Yue Hejun, 28, as he waited to recharge his family's three mobile phones at a charging stall, volunteered by a communications company and co-ordinated by the government in a new addition to the arsenal of services after natural disasters.

Hard lessons learned

The Yushu quake in 2010 killed more than 2,600 people.

- Much of the initial relief after the Yushu disaster came from Buddhist monks and other non-government volunteers, partly because of the remoteness of much of the affected areas.
- "After 24 hours or 48 hours in Yushu, things were not so orderly or settled in," said a doctor at the refugee camp. "The government's quick, organized response is very important."

On Monday people rest near tents set up in the aftermath of an earthquake that struck southwestern China's Sichuan province

U.S. aims to get China to help with North Korea crisis

The United States will press China over its forcible repatriation of refugees to North Korea, a U.S. human rights envoy said Monday. He likened the North's vast gulag to that operated by the Soviet Union in the 1930s.

The Obama administration is looking for Beijing to use its leverage over its North Korean ally to tamp down its provocative behaviour and move toward abandoning nuclear weapons.

The prime focus of Washington's policy is on tackling the emerging threat to the U.S. and its allies posed by North Korea's missile and nuclear programs. But King said human rights were also important for U.S. policy.

He described conditions in North Korea as deplorable, and took particular aim at the prison camp system which he said is estimated to hold between 130,000 and 200,000 people

NEPTUNE THEATRE SUPPORTS CLOSE TO 200 LOCAL BUSINESSES

Arts and culture plays an important role in our community in many ways and Neptune Theatre is a critical part of that.

The question of why people should invest in arts and culture is raised regularly in our society.

For Amy Melmock, the general manager at Neptune Theatre, there are many reasons to invest in the arts – and not just for the warmhappy feelings it might trigger.

"Part of the benefit is an intrinsic benefit," says Melmock. "It's a social benefit that you really are making people feel a part of the community."

By sponsoring Neptune, it helps the theatre put fantastic shows on, which means that people from the community can attend shows and feel a closer connection to the city.

Neptune also helps attract creative types

(such as actors and production people) to live and work in Halifax. Without $\,$ Neptune here, they would likely have to pursue theatre careers away from Nova Scotia.

There's also an economic benefit to investing in Neptune that goes far beyond the theatre.

In 2010, the Saint Mary's University

Business Development Centre wrote a report examining what Neptune's economic impact on the community was.

Some of the key findings were that on an annual basis, Neptune generates $9.2 million of economic activity, half of which is patron spending in the local economy. As well, approximately $1.2 million of patron spending was deemed to be new spending "that would have either not occurred, or would have been delayed had these customers not attended a Neptune performance."

"When people invest in Neptune, they're making an investment in a much larger thing," says Melmock.

As a non-profit organization, the money that ultimately comes into Neptune is then invested back in the community. Melmock says there are 200 local businesses from which Neptune gets goods and services, such as lumber, fabric and paint.

In fact, Neptune is in such constant need of getting supplies that it has an employee whose job is to drive around Halifax and pick things up.

"We actually need somebody full-time to be in charge of that," says Melmock with a laugh.

In some instances, the words sponsorship brings to mind thoughts of giving, but not receiving anything in return. For those businesses that sponsor Neptune Theatre, that certainly isn't the case.

"We're providing a very powerful marketing opportunity for sponsors, so when you're making that investment, you're getting a return," says Jennie King, Neptune's director of sales and marketing.

The non-profit organization offers a range of custom sponsorship opportunities to meet a client's philanthropic and marketing objectives.

King describes Neptune as being like a turn-key marketing agency, in that it has the expertise to do things such as copywriting, design work and media buying.

"It gives us a lot of freedom and flexibility to tailor something specific to a company and what their objectives are," she says.

From a philanthropic standpoint, Neptune is very important to the community, especially the downtown because it acts as an anchor to attract people to spend time in the downtown.

On the marketing side, sponsors definitely see a return on their investment. With over 90,000 people passing through Neptune's doors every year (25,000 of that being during the Christmas holidays), that's a large body of people that are reached.

NEPTUNE SPONSORSHIP IS AN INVESTMENT IN THE COMMUNITY

As well, Neptune's subscribers are an ideal target market for businesses as they tend to be highly educated with an above-average disposable income.

"Those facts are definitely appealing to a lot of people who end up sponsoring Neptune," says King.

Besides exposure, some of the other benefits of sponsorship may include complimentary tickets, employee ticket discounts and on-site hosting opportunities.

When sponsoring Neptune, the money can be used in a variety of areas, such as the actual show that is being presented on stage or Neptune's Young Company Tour (YCT). YCT visits small communities throughout the Maritimes and performs to students directly at their schools.

The bottom line is the money used from sponsorship is put into the programming and not the day-to-day operations at Neptune.

With its 50-plus years of existence, Neptune has longevity and sponsors can take comfort in the stability it provides, in addition to the return on investment they will receive. METRO CUSTOM NEPTUNE'S PARTNERS PLAY A STARRING ROL

NEPTUNE SPONSORS SHARE THEIR STORIES

Businesses have different reasons for supporting Neptune Theatre.

For Scotiabank, there are multiple reasons why it sponsors Neptune.

"We believe arts and culture play an important role in enriching the communities where we live and work," says Islay McGlynn, the senior vice president of retail and small business banking for the Atlantic region. "It enriches our lives by feeding the imagination."

McGlynn says Neptune is a very professional organization and Scotiabank is delighted to support Neptune with its proven success over the past 50 years.

"We look forward to their next 50!" says McGlynn

Supporting Neptune does not necessarily involve a financial donation, as in-kind donations are another possibility. Premiere Executive Suites Atlantic is an example of this. It provides fully-furnished condominiums to the actors and personnel who come from away to work at Neptune.

Christine Bishop, Premiere's vice president of sales and corporate relations, says it was drawn to working with Neptune because both parties are people and relationship-driven organizations and that begins with how they value their own employee base.

Premiere also appreciates the exposure it gets from working with Neptune.

"The partnership is such a two-way street," says Bishop.

THANK YOU!

Neptune Theatre would like to thank the Sponsors, Partners and Donors who supported our 2012/13 season. Their support is integral to our ability to inspire audiences with great stories.

NATIONAL FARE? STICK A FORK IN ME

Earlier this month, the Canadian government launched a three-week food-truck initiative in Mexico City (using taxpayer money, of course) to help promote Canadian cuisine abroad. The rationale behind the truck—which sells "poutine a la Mexicana," among other dishes—is to increase international awareness about our national culinary offerings. According to a spokesperson for Agriculture Canada, only about a third of Mexicans were able to identify a food product that was typically Canadian. Evidently, it's time to ramp up our PR efforts if we want to make Canadian fare world-famous.

From B.C. Pacific salmon to Alberta beef to Quebec tourtière to P.E.I. potatoes, Canada's culinary identity is all over the map. Literally.

There's so much more to us than maple syrup, but our regional gastronomical specialties are as disparate as our geography, and this makes it challenging to define a quintessentially Canadian

Jessica Napier metronews.ca

Does Canada's favourite sandwich feature peameal bacon or stacks of Montreal smoked meat? Do we prefer to satisfy our sweet tooth with Nanaimo bars, tarte au sucre or Beaver Tails? I bet we couldn't even agree on a national alcoholic beverage: Perhaps it's a three-way tie between Molson Canadian, Newfoundland Screech and the hangover-curing Caesar.

We're a country of such varying tastes and regional delicacies that it's not too surprising to learn that foreigners have trouble identifying a national dish of the Great White North.

Sometimes the best way to figure out what it is you love about your home and native land is to leave.

In London, England, where the Canadian immigrant population is significant and ravenous, tastes of home are sold at a premium. Boxes of Kraft Dinner and Tim Hortons coffee canisters line the shelves at the aptly named Canada Shop in Covent Garden, where homesick Canucks will happily join a month-long waiting list for a bag of ketchup

Across the city, Canadian expats Amy Baker and Anya Nikoulina recently set up a patriotic poutine cart in Broadway Market and are doing their part to promote the artery-clogging latenight meal across the pond.

Everyone that approaches the stall has some kind of story about the dish," says Baker. "They're either a Canadian living" abroad, married to a Canadian or had lived in Canada at some point in their life and tried it ... even the apprehensive British customers have gotten on board with the savoury snack."

Poutine might be making a name for itself beyond our borders, but there's no way one dish could define the entire Canadian culinary scene. In a country as vast and diverse as Canada, local agricultural differences and cultural traditions have made our cuisine confusing but also

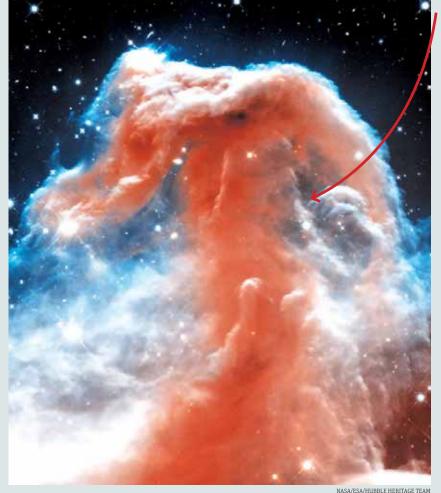

It's these regional differences that make our food interesting and delicious.

Josh Brolin and his fellow Gangster Squad antiheroes have their work cut out for them fighting Mickey Cohen, the 1940s mobster psychopath Sean Penn plays with visceral glee. But Brolin's Sgt. John O'Mara and his fellow LAPD hard nuts played by Ryan Gosling, Giovanni Ribisi, Anthony Mackie, Michael Peña and Robert Patrick — are after the wrong villain(s). Better they should be looking for the heinous computer boffins who turned this from film noir homage into a lurid cartoon, something that seeks the drama of The Untouchables and L.A. Oh Boy! Elton John helps Save Rock and Roll

Fall Out Boy's latest release. English legend joins Chicago rockers on new album along with some other famous faces

When Fall Out Boy learned that Elton John was a fan of their music, they jokingly thought he might want to record with them. As it turned out, he did.

"We were nearly done with the album," lead singer Patrick Stump said in a recent interview. "I think we were mixing at that point, but he said, 'Yes' and we were like, 'Oh, wow. OK, yes."

The Chicago-based rockers halted the mixing process of their fifth album — their first in five years — and Stump flew to Atlanta to record with the veteran rocker.

John is featured on the title track of Save Rock and Roll, released last week. Band members say the title of the album is "tongue-in-cheek," but they're also serious about their choice of words.

"It hits on ... "Why are we the only ones that are saying this?" said frontman and bassist Pete Wentz. "But at the same time, it's kind of a joke. But if it means something to you, then it's not really that much of a joke."

Stump said John's inclusion on the title track really drives home their point. "He actually spoke up for the album's title. He came in and was like, 'Love the album title. Love where this is going. This is great,'" Stump said. "And that was really special for us to have him support us like that."

Just before the John-featured tune plays on the 11-track set, there's the song "Rat a Tat," featuring Courtney Love.

"We've had a couple different run-ins just over the years, you know, just ones where you're like, 'I had 17 drinks last night and I ran into Courtney Love," Wentz recalled with a laugh. "It's important for girls to

"It's important for girls to understand that they don't need to just be coat hangers for boys, it's not all about being groupies," he said. "So we thought it would be important to have an iconic female voice on the album, and Courtney screams rock 'n' roll."

Fall Out Boy released their debut album in 2003. They are known for their alternative punk rock sound and Top 10 pop hits including This Ain't a Scene, It's an Arms Race, Dance, Dance and Sugar, We're Goin Down. The album's first single, My Songs Know What You Did in the Dark (Light Em Up), is a Top 40 hit that was remixed by 2 Chainz, who stars in the song's music video.

"We're big, big 2 Chainz fans," Wentz said of the ubiquitous rapper. Added guitarist Joe Trohman: "He works hard." 2 Chainz and rapper Big Sean's appearances balance the rock heavyweights on Save Rock and Roll, which the band will promote on a U.S. tour that kicks off May 14 in Milwaukee. (They'll also hit the road internationally this summer and will return to the U.S. for a fall tour.)

metronews.ca Tuesday, April 23, 2013

A year after releasing 2008's Folie a Deux, the foursome, which includes drummer Andy Hurley, took a break from recording together. There was speculation the group had split up. "No, we never broke up," Trohman said. Wentz quickly jumped in, saying: "No, but I think that it's like, I don't know. ... When we were taking time off and it was like ... we could be back in 20 years or maybe we won't ever come back. Ĭ think that was the great thing about how we took time off and it kind of allowed it to be healthier that it didn't put a return date on it."

"It wasn't like we were a library book being checked out," Wentz added. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lacking the X-Factor – Host Kardashian gets the boot

THE WORD Dorothy Robinson scene@metronews.c

A watchable reality TV star does not a good host make.

Khloe Kardashian has been booted off Fox's The X Factor, while her co-host Mario Lopez will remain for the third season.

"Khloe Kardashian will not be returning to co-host The X Factor," the show's producers said in a statement. "We really enjoyed working with her and wish her all the best in her future endeavors." (Translation: One, big, long fart noise.)

Lopez will join returning judges Simon Cowell and Demi Lovato, with at least one more judge yet to be announced. "I'm thrilled Mario is back for season three of The X Factor," said Cowell in a statement.

Mario Lopez, you sly, welloiled, muscular fox. Who would have thought the dude who made sitting backwards in a chair popular would be the most successful graduate of Saved By The Bell?

Witherspoon embarrassed after recent run in with law

With the mugshot (above) from her arrest in Atlanta for disorderly conduct making the rounds, Reese Witherspoon is speaking out about the headline-making incident.

"I do want to say I clearly had one drink too many and I am deeply embarrassed about the things I said. I was frightened for my husband, but that is no excuse. I was disrespectful to the officer who was just doing his job. I have nothing but respect for the police and I'm very sorry for my behaviour."

Witherspoon reportedly got into an argument with an officer after husband Jim Toth was pulled over on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Both were arrested and briefly jailed.

Are Bieber and Gomez are back on?

Justin Bieber seems to want to say something about the state of his relationship with ex-girlfriend Selena Gomez. After Gomez met up with him in Norway this weekend, Bieber posted a cosy photo of the pair on Instagram — then promptly deleted it. Are you a sugar addict?

Quiz. Dr. Joel Fuhrman, best selling author of The End of Diabetes, puts you to the test and helps you figure out if you're running on a sugar high

ROMINA McGUINNESS

Do you shake, sob or shout if you run out of peanut butter M&Ms and the shops are shut for the day? According to nutritional researcher Dr. Joel Fuhrman, sugar addiction is just as serious as being hooked on cocaine.

"Low-nutrient foods rich in sugar, oils, white flour and salt have similar biochemical effects in the brain as addictive drugs," he tells Metro. "Because they tend to be especially palatable, these foods activate reward pathways in the brain and produce toxic withdrawal symptoms often misinterpreted as hunger, driving us to eat even more."

But unlike drugs, sugar is legal and inexpensive, he warns.

- A I do not eat sugary foods. B Feel satisfied But then you move on with your day.
- C Are tempted to eat more, but force yourself to stop.
- D Completely lose control and whoops, there goes the whole tray. Now you feel super guilty.

7. Whoa sugar craving. How do you cope?

Smoothness is a science with this Modernist Potato Purée

As with most modernist recipes, accuracy is key. provideď volume equivalents of most ingredients, but for best results use a digital scale and weigh things out. Diastatic malt powder is the secret to making these dairy-free puréed potatoes smooth and creamy. It is widely available online, as well as at brewing supply shops.

1. Fill a large pot halfway with hot tap water. Set the pot over very low heat. Maintain the water temperature at 125 F. To hold this temperature, you may need to turn the heat on and off occasionally.

2. Meanwhile, peel the potatoes and cut them into 1-inch cubes. Measure about 1/3 cups of the potato cubes. Reserve any excess for another use.

3. Place the potatoes in a second large pot with 2 litres (about 2 quarts) of water. Add the salt and sugar, then bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to maintain a simmer and cook until the potatoes are very tender, 30 to 40 minutes.

4. Drain the potatoes, then transfer them to a food processor. Add the malt powder, then process until smooth and sticky. Transfer to a large zip-close plastic bag, pressing out as much air as possible before closing. Place the bag of potatoes in the pot of 125 F water and cook in this manner for 30 minutes.

5. Empty the potatoes from the bag into a clean pot, then heat gently to at least 167 F. Season with salt and serve immediately.

There's no 'P' in asparagus?

NUTRI-BITES Theresa Albe DHN, RNCP

Let's just get that asparagus pee myth off the table. Ewww. It was once thought that the strong, ubiquitous urine scent was only produced by some. In fact, it is produced by all of us but about 22 per cent can't detect the smell. The only way to test is to let someone else come into the loo if you can't smell it. Now that's spring fun nutritionist style! Asparagus is a fast growing shoot that delivers Vitamin K, Vitamin A and folate.

The typical way of cooking asparagus is to snip off the woody ends and poach for a few minutes, pulling them out before they become grey or mushy. But here are a few more ideas:

- Roast on a pan in the oven at 425 F for 15 minutes, sprinkle with sea salt
- Chop and add to soups for the last 5 minutes
 - Chop and steam, sautée in chicken broth for 5 minutes covered
 - Wrap in prosciutto and bake at 350 for 15
 - Poached, cooled and served with a curry yogurt dip

Trying to impress someone special with a tony dinner but need an etiquette polish first?

Metro's very own Charles the Butler — Charles MacPherson — is out with a new book, The Butler Speaks, offering a return to proper manners, stylish entertaining and good housekeeping. Here is his refresher on how to properly set a table.

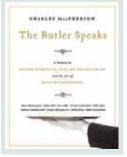

Setting the standard in etiquette

Below, I include four different styles of place setting. Each is subtly different from the next. Interestingly, most cultures eat using utensils, and most also begin with utensils on the outside of a place setting, working inward towards the plate.

The Budley Correla

This excerpt from The Butler Speaks is courtesy of Appetite by Random House, randomhouse.ca. It is available in bookstores nationwide starting today.

On the web

Think you are as entertaining and manners-savvy as Charles the Butler? Visit metronews.ca to take our quiz.

The American place setting

In this setting, the glasses form a diamond shape above the cutlery, with the first glass placed directly above the main course knife (inside, right). The dessert spoon and the fork are at the top of the plate, and above them is the place card. Guests use the cutlery from the outside moving in. This place setting starts with a soup course (spoon, outside right), moves on to a salad (fork, outside left), a fish course (middle fork and knife) and a meat course (inside fork and knife).

The Chinese place setting

In China, there is no standard for formal place settings at tables as is common practice in the Western world. In fact, the focus is on the food rather than the place setting. The diagram shows a typical place setting, but it can easily be changed to suit your needs without making any errors of etiquette.

The European place setting

In this setting, the glasses are placed on a diagonal on the right of the plate. Individual salt and pepper shakers are placed above the plate. The spoon (outside, right) is for the first course, soup. The next fork and knife are for the second course (fish), and the final inside set is for the main meat course.

The fork closest to the plate is for salad, which in this meal will be served last. Cutlery for dessert will be offered later. Sometimes it is placed closest to the plate, though not in this drawing.

The French place setting

Traditionally, the French place setting in a residence does not include a bread and butter plate, or a knife for the salad course. And although the cutlery is laid out the same way as in American and British settings, the forks and spoons are turned over. The reason? French family monograms are engraved on the back of the cutlery, so it's placed face down to show that it's real silver.

MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronew

I'm not an employment expert but I'm becoming one, especially for young workers. As my daughter attempts to find full-time work after graduating with a two-year culinary degree from George Brown College in Toronto, I am seeing first hand the difficulty of getting that first foot in the door.

This is the time of year when young people are transitioning from school and according to the Certified General Accountants (CGA) of Canada this is one of the toughest times in our working lives.

On the plus side, a recent CGA report, based on 2011 data, discovered that close to half found work within four weeks and the average length of time that youth (under age 24) were unemployed was 11 weeks. Surprisingly, that figure is actually below the length of time experienced by young workers 25 to 29.

Also, young workers are twice as likely to suffer from long-term unemployment of a year or more. These figures could be explained by the fact that the youngest job hunters have less post-secondary education and are in the lower paying jobs in the retail and service sector.

the retail and service sector.

Many are blaming the boomers (and I'm one of them) for crowding out all those youngsters. The post-war generation is supposedly working longer or going back to work and keeping youth from getting in the door.

But according to the CGA report it isn't so. There are only two areas where younger and older workers are competing — sales and service and clerical occupations.

Clearly, if you are young and hoping to find a less crowded field, areas such as health services, applied sciences and computer and information systems may offer the highest chance of success.

While the CGA report shows a rosier picture for young workers and pokes at a few myths about old farts keeping the millennial generation from jobs, there are still concerns. One in particular is the high rate of under-employment for those young workers with university or equivalent degrees.

Playoff losses

Desjardins' fond memories of Halifax take a hit

It wasn't the type of homecoming Gabriel Desjardins was hoping for.

The former Halifax Moosehead and current Rouyn-Noranda Huskies captain left the province's capital empty-handed with his squad down 2-0 in their semifinal series against the Herd.

"It was a hard one, it hurt a lot," said Desjardins, who picked up three assists in the Mooseheads come-frombehind overtime victory. "We showed a lot of character, it was a really close game. We just didn't get it done."

Going home he knows the Huskies have their work cut out for them.

But even after Sunday's painful loss, he said it was good to be back where he spent three and a half years developing into the player he is today.

"I remember scoring my first goal, as a 16-yearold here — that was very special for me — and my first hat trick, against Gatineau —` that was a great game and a great win for us."

Beyond his on-ice accomplishments, he remains grateful for his billet family, the MacEacherns.

"Lorraine (MacEachern), she was like a mom to me, she did everything for me.

She was a big part of my development."

"It was funny coming back here, I played three and a half years here, the fans were really great to me, but at the same time I have a job to do. I have a responsibility to my teammates."

Nathan MacKinnon lives for those big-time moments when the game is on the line.

Like in Game 2 of the Halifax Mooseheads' semifinal playoff series against the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies on Sunday.

The 17-year-old Cole Harbour native scored 2:58 into the third to spark the Mooseheads' impressive 5-4 comeback victory. Then he and line-mate Jonathan Drouin assisted on Martin Frk's overtime winner.

"The way me and Jo look at things is a lot of guys can get points in blowouts but we really want to step up when it matters," said MacKinnon after picking up a hat trick in the Mooseheads' hard fought 6-4 victory in Game 1.

The pair has done exactly that, collecting 17 points in just two games. Now, Drouin and MacKinnon sit second and third in QMJHL playoff scoring with 24 and 23 points respectively. So far, so good.

Part of it has to do with good chemistry; the other part of it, MacKinnon says, has to do with him feeling rejuvenated after a nine-day rest following the second round.

"I feel great. This is our second long layover of the playoffs. This one was good for everyone. We had the right amount of rest and practice to get our form. We really prepared ourselves the best we Drouin insists that he hasn't altered his game in the third round; it's just that the circumstances have changed.

"I don't think I stepped up my game that much," said Drouin. "I'm playing the same way I played against Gatineau and Saint John — they we're tighter games, but now it's more open here in this series."

But both are well aware that the Huskies possess a wealth of talent, including Sven Andrighetto, who leads the league in playoff scoring, and are capable of turning the tables on the Mooseheads in their own barn for Games 3 and 4.

"We just have to be prepared to play our game from the first period and we'll be OK."said Drouin.

Game 3. Halifax taking nothing for granted in rematch

One thing's for sure, Jonathan Drouin is preparing for a dogfight

The Halifax Mooseheads forward knows the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies will be playing desperately at home on Tuesday as they try to dig themselves out of a 2-0 hole in their semifinal series against Drouin also knows they'll be looking for redemption after squandering a two-goal third period lead in Sunday's Game 2 5-4 overtime loss.

"It's not going to be an easy place to play," said Drouin, who leads the Herd in postseason scoring with 24 points.

Though Drouin and the Mooseheads dominated the Huskies in the second and third periods of Game 2 outshooting Rouyn 18-7 — the Herd gave up all four goals, two of which were power play tallies, in the first period.

The focus will be to play a more disciplined, relentless game from start to finish.

"We know we can be the better team five-on-five," said Drouin.

Mooseheads forward Martin Frk, who scored Sunday's OT winner, is taking nothing for granted heading into Game 3.

"They can pass, they can score, they can be physical," said Frk. "We know that and we'll be ready."

Jets looking to get the job done in D.C.

NHL. Clash with Caps becomes 'biggest' of season for playoffhungry Winnipeg

Having eked out a win over the Buffalo Sabres, Evander Kane and the Winnipeg Jets were already looking ahead to the next big test in their late-season bid to make the playoffs: Alex Ovechkin and the Washington Capitals.

"This game means nothing now," Kane said, referring to the Jets' 2-1 win over the Sabres on Monday night. "We needed this game in order to make something of tomorrow (Tuesday). Tomorrow's the biggest game of our season."

Antti Miettinen's shot from the right circle that just dribbled in over the goal line with 7:36 remaining proved to be the difference in keeping the Jets in the playoff race.

his second-period goal against the abres. sean rudyk/getty images

Winnipeg (24-19-3) improved to 6-0-1 in its past seven and moved within a point of the idle New York Rangers and Ottawa Senators, who hold the Eastern Conference's final two playoff spots. Just as important, the Jets also crept to within a point of Southeast Divisionleading Washington. That sets up a critical showdown on Tuesday, when Winnipeg travels to play the Capitals in the final week of the season.

Winnipeg's seven-game point streak is its longest since going 6-0-1 from Nov. 22-Dec. 5, 2006, when the franchise was still the Atlanta Thrashers. In their second season in Winnipeg, the Jets are attempting to qualify for the playoffs for the first time in seven seasons and only the second time in the team's 13-year history.

Not all the news is good for the Jets. Already missing centre Olli Jokinen (ankle) and defenceman Zach Bogosian (concussion), Winnipeg lost forward Kyle Wellwood, who hurt his right hand blocking Vanek's shot in the second period.

Jets coach Claude Noel would say only that Wellwood sustained a long-term injury to his hand.

"We know what's at stake," Noel said, looking ahead to facing the Capitals. "It's the time of the year to put your best foot forward." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Colangelo talks coach, playoffs

Heading into an off-season of uncertainty, Bryan Colangelo said he was certain of two things: The Toronto Raptors will make a run for the playoffs next season, and if he's back as general manager Dwane Casey will remain his head coach.

Colangelo and Casey met with the Toronto media on Monday, a few days after the Raptors (34-48) wrapped up their fifth consecutive season without a playoff appearance.

"I will take that squarely on my shoulders and say that is the new expectation going into next year," Colangelo said on playoff expectations.

Colangelo doesn't have a deal for next season, with the club holding an option on what would be his eighth year. The GM said he believes his contract situation will be "resolved" within the next two or three weeks.

And if he returns, he said Casey will be back as well. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Red Devils realize their 20/20 vision

With 75,000 delirious Manchester United fans chanting "champions, champions" at full voice, Rio Ferdinand tugged the back of Robin van Persie's shirt bearing his squad number and shouted: "No. 20, No. 20."

Twenty was the number at Old Trafford on Monday.

United produced a performance of style and swagger to extend its record haul of English league titles to 20, overwhelming Aston Villa 3-0 to wrap up the championship with four matches to spare and reclaim the trophy from local rival Manchester City.

Van Persie, United's driving force all season, scored all three goals in a clinical first-half display. Dressed for the occasion - he was wearing the No.

Red Devils manager Alex Ferguson's decision to sign Van Persie in the last off-season for $36 million (U.S.) — a hefty price for a previously injury-prone player with just a year left on his Arsenal contract – has turned into a masterstroke. The associated press

MLB. Ninth inning lapse proves costly for Jays

Nick Markakis singled home the winning run with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays on Monday night.

Toronto reliever Aaron Loup (1-2) began the ninth by hitting Chris Davis with a pitch. After a sacrifice bunt, Steve Pearce popped out and Nolan Reimold received an intentional walk before Alexi Casilla reached on a throwing error by shortstop Munenori Kawasaki that Markakis then sliced an 0-2 pitch to the opposite field near the left-field line.

Jim Johnson (1-1) worked a perfect ninth for the Orioles, now 5-2 on a ninegame homestand that ends Wednesday.

Υ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You don't have to be perfect and you certainly don't have to live up to standards that other people set for you. The message of the stars this week is to be yourself.

Taurus April 21 - May 21

You'll be in an impulsive mood today, both in your personal life and at work, but is that such a bad thing?

∐ Gemini May 22 - June 21

You may now be wondering if some of the plans you made earlier in the year were a bit optimistic. If so there is no need to criticize yourself for it, all you have to do is change them slightly. Much is still possible.

9 Cancer

June 22 - July 23

There is something you are desperate to say, something that has been nagging away at you for ages. Then say it and get it over with. Yes, you may well antagonize a few people but that's their fault not yours.

Ω Leo July 24 - Aug. 23

The Sun in Taurus brings out the cautious side of your nature, especially at work where you may be reluctant to say or do things that could rock the boat. It's a wise choice: the seas are a bit choppy at the moment.

W Virgo Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Fact and fantasy are not so far apart that you can't find ways to link them. If you are creative by nature - and most Virgos are — use your imagination to envision a new future for yourself - then make it happen.

△ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You may want to heal a rift of some kind but if you try to be nice your rivals will see it as a sign of weakness and redouble their efforts to make you look bad. Some rifts are meant to be.

M Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It may be tempting to keep your head down and stay off the radar this week but if you take that route you will miss an opportunity to change your environment for the better. You can't opt out of life

7 Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

No doubt your head is full of wonderful ideas but make sure they are grounded in reality. Optimism is a wonderful thing but too much of the stuff can have negative consequences.

17 Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

What you need to recognize is that different people have different personalities and therefore different ways of doing things.

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The next few days are going to be challenging but that's okay because you will come out of it stronger and wiser. Thursday's eclipse will bring a work-related matter to a head. Promise yourself you'll stay calm.

H Pisces Feb. 20 - March 20

If something that has been going well for you now starts to go wrong don't worry too much. Take it as a sign to just leave it alone for a bit and by the end of the week you can pick up where you left off.
